

ABSTRACT

The invention provides strategies, methods, vectors, reagents, and systems for production of synthetic genes, production of libraries of such genes, and manipulation and characterization of the genes and corresponding encoded polypeptides. In one aspect, the synthetic genes can encode polyketide synthase polypeptides and facilitate production of therapeutically or commercially important polyketide compounds.